GEOGRAPHICAL POSITION

Mr. Frank A. Heywood, in his pamphlet, "The Norfolk and Southern Railroad and its Commercial Tributaries," says:

"New Bern is the natural base of commercial operations for Eastern North Carolina, and there you had best got from desire a perfect home, and there you must go if you expect to find the perfect comforts not to be obtained except in those localities where the advantages are accrued by large communities congregating together."

Mr. Jonathan Havens, in his "Pamlico Section," says, cor

"The city of New Bern is beautifully situated at the junction of the News and Trent rives, the News forming its eastern and the Trent its southern boundary—both wide and beautiful streams. * * Oring to its situation at the junction of two wide rivers, and only twenty-eight statute miles from the occun, the winters are mild and the summer west greatly modified by the daily sea-breeze from the southheat and southeast."

From Mr. Washington Bryan's Hand-book, "New Berne as a Health Resort," I quote the following:

"The entire winter frequently passes without snow, and sleets are practically unknown, the thermometer seldom registering below the freezing point."

NEW BERNE AS A HOME.

There is, perhaps, no other city in the United States where such conditions exist for a pleasant home as in New Berne. Blessed with a most delightful and healthy climate, the death rate being less than that of any city in the South, for the pent of the standpoint it is without a rival. Churches are well attended. Schools, both public and private, are of high grade and conveniently located; her professional men see known prominently allower the State; and her moral and intellectual reputation is as exalted to-day as when some seventy years ago. Well drained streets, lined with magnificent shade trees lend additional beauty to the elegant private residences sitting back among evergreens and flower-bedecked yards, with which no place of this size in the country can compare. The buildings generally are not only sightly, but comfortable, and rents are reasonably low. The cost of living, if you so choose, can be made almost nominal. The products of the waters-ovsters, clams, shrimps, escallops, and seventy different kinds of fish-are so plentiful in the market that the average price of fresh fish does not exceed two cents a pound. The very centre of the best trucking section in the country, fresh vegetables can be had the year round at prices to suit the most economical. The contiguous farming country supplies the butchers with excellent beef and mutton, while the huntsmen bring in a profusion of wild game-ducks of various varieties, squirrels, deer, bear, geese, partridges, etc .- to tickle the palate of the epicure. But, greater than all these in the consideration of a home, is the character of the people, kind, courteous, chivalric, honorable and generous. To the labor seeker, the lumbermen and the truck farmers give ready employment the year round at good wages. The two railroads and the various lines of steam and sail-boats give ample facility for both passengers and freight to any quarter.

Summing up, New Berne has more advantages and fewer drawbacks as a place of residence than any other prosperous business city on the map.

The new water supplied by the Water-works Company from artesian wells, will add to the health and comfort of citizens, while the Electric Street Railway, now being constructed, will give ready and cheap transportation to every part of the city.

Three banks afford ample money facilities, and local panies are unknown.

NEW BERNE.

1st. The Name—It was named by Baron De Graffenried, the first settler, Newbern, after his native city of Bern in Switzerland, in 1710, and the official records from the colonial days to the late war so spell it. For twenty-odd years both official documents and common custom have used the spelling of this caption, until recently the Postoffice Department has returned to the ancient style. This the citizens of the place dissent from and continue to use the modern acceptation as right and proper. Possibly the more correct orthography would be New Bern, to distinguish it from old Bern in Switzerland, as New York is from old Vork in England,

2d. Irs SETLEMENT.—The town was first settled in 1710 by a colony of German and Swiss under Louis Mitchell and Baron De Graffenried. A few emigrants from the Virginia colonies had preceded them in 1707 and settled along the Neuse and Trent rivers. In 1711 the colony was suddenly killed, Assistance arriving from Virginia and Sunth Carolina, the Indians were besieged at Fort Barnwell, eighteen miles from here, and those not killed were made prisoners.

MANUFACTURES

Among the largest manufactories in the State is the fertilizer factory of Messrs. E. H. & J. A. Meadows, who put up seven or eight different brands by the thousand tons, of different analysis, but all high grade and made principally of fish.

The largest grain mill in Eastern North Carolina is that of Mr. J. A. Meadows at this place.

A knitting factory of large capacity also forms an important part of New Berne's industrial enterprises.

The principal manufacturing interest, however, is in lumber. Twelve saw and planing mills, the aggregate capacity of which amounts to hundreds of thousands of feet a day, convert the various kinds of timber so plentful there into material for building houses and boats, and making furniture. About ninety per cent. of this lumber is shipped directly to Northern markets, to Europe and other foreign countries.

There is one cigar factory.

Engines, boilers and saw-mills are made here that compare favorably with those from other places. Sail-making is also one of the profitable industries.

The two carriage factories turn out good work, and do a large business in the eastern part of the State.

There are two large barrel factories finding ready sale for their output, particularly in the trucking season. Two large shingle mills ship by the car and boat load all over the country.

The shirt factory sells all of its output without trouble.

NEW BERNE CITY DIRECTORY. FISH MARKETS

In this connection, a standard authority has said: "New Bern has one of the finest fish markets in the world. It equals, if it does not excel, in quantity, quality and variety the far-famed fish market of Havana." The appended list will establish the truth of this assertion, as also the further statement that "the oysters of New Bern are abundant and of superior quality as to size and flavor, those from New river being equal to the celebrated Lynnhaven."

The different kinds of fish are sheephead, porgies, drum, red, Spanish mackerel, bluefish, speckled trout, yellow trout, mullets, starfish, butter perch, shad, herring, sunfish, redfins, sea mullets, pinfish, sand perch, hogfish, Welchman, sturgeon, suckers, buzzard shad, robins, chub robin, red horse, black sucker, speckled perch, white perch, catfish, grundles, gar, rock, moon, black, cod, jack, pickerel, toadfish, stingers, skates, carp, chinquepin perch, croaker, spot, flounder, blue joe robin, green gar, sea pike, sword, hickory shad, eels, abrocore, flat back, yellow fin shad, oyster-fish, black bass, and two varieties of shark, black drum, pike, white cat, black cat, blue cat, gray cat, making a total of sixty-six varieties remembered.

To these are added other water products more famous: Turtle-the snapper, slider, sea turtle, chicken turtle, green turtle, and the epicure's delicious "diamond-back" terrapin; soft, hard-shell and stone crabs; escallops, shrimps, clams, oysters, of which latter both the New River and Nelson Bay are equally as good as the Lynnhaven in size and flavor.

Thousands of packages of fish are shipped from here to New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and the interior towns of Virginia and the two Carolinas. They are brought to the packing-houses generally alive, boxed in ice and sent by express, reaching their destination before the ice melts or they become the least stale. The same system prevails in oysters. They are shipped as soon as opened, and are always fresh from the water. The cost of ice, manufactured here, is nominal, and enough of it is used in packing to keep shipments fresh. Some of the largest and most reliable shippers in the South are located here, and are represented by advertisements in this book.

PROPERTY AND OFFICE

Major John Ruok, Chief Engineer of the Norfolk, Wilmington and Charleston Railroad (passing through New Berne when completed.—En.), in his report to that company of July 15, 1892, has the following:

"New Bern is a flourishing town, situated at the confluence of the Neuse and Trent rivers, * * * and has a population of over 12,000 inhabitants."

"In 1891 there was shipped from New Bern over 100, 000,000 feet of lumber, going to various points in the North, in the States of Maryland, Delaware, New York, Pennsyl-

"In 1890 there was shipped from New Bern, by all lines, 75,249 barrels of potatoes, 19,007 barrels of vegetables, 49,932 half-crates of vegetables, 49,932 half-crates of vegetables, 38,333 crates of eggs, 6,907 barrels of oysters, 241 tows of fresh fish, 10,000,00 cans of oysters, and 18,200 melons." (These figures are nearly doubled, since Major Ruok's report, as to truck. In his estimate of population at that time, now nearly correct, he probably mended the author of James City.—En. 241 for first owney control of cotton. " " And there is received annually 24,000 tons of merchandiss."

This year the A. & N. R. R. carried 98,000 packages truck; the Old Dominion Steamship Line 50,000; the E. C. D. 86,783; grand total of 234,783 packages and barrels.

COTTON MARKET.

For years New Berne has been one of the best cotion markets in the State. There is a good corps of buyers, belonging to the Exchange, several of whom buy for and ship on through bills lading directly to European markets via Wilmington over the Wilmington, New Berne and Norsoft Kaliroda. Ad Worfelk' is the Eastern Carolina Dispatch and the Old Dominion Steamship lines. It is generally the property of the Carolina of the Wilmington, which was the property of the property cents for hundred and insurance one-eighth of one per cent. Prices range with those paid in Wilmington.

POPULATION

The United States census in 1890 gave the population of New Berneat 7,453. This was an increase of trenty-three and a fraction per cent. over the 1880 census. The city authorities had a police census taken September, 1893, which gave the population at 8,528, making an increase of 683, or eight per cent. in two and a half years. Just across the Trebt river is James City, containing some 2,500 colored people, who practically do their business in New Berne, though outside the corporate limits, and, therefore, not included in either census.

CEDAR GROVE CEMETERY.

D. H. STALLINGS, SEXTON.

This beautiful resting place of the mortal remains of most of New Bernés honced dead who have "creased over the river" since 1800, is in a grove of cedar and other evergreen and shade trees in the western part of the city. There are numerous vaults, monuments and tombs in well-kept plots, while the whole is surrounded by a wall of the beautiful native shell rock. Over the arch of the main entrance, engawed in the shell rock, is to be found its history in the organized in the shell rock, is to be found its history in the analysis of the control of the cont

THOMAS O'SHEA, SUPERINTENDENT.

The cemetery is about one mile north of the railway station in New Berne and fronts east on the Government road. The lot is a rectangle of 825 feet by 400 feet and contains seven and one-half acres of land, purchased by the United States for $570.17½. It is enclosed by a brick wall, along the inside of which ivy is planted.

The lodge, outhouses and rostrum are built of shell rock, a conglomerate of marine shells imbedded in a matrix of natural hydraulic cement.

20 NEW BERNE CITY DIRECTORY.

The cemetery is divided by grassed driveways into eighteen burial sections, and in these the graves are arranged in parallel rows and all marked by headstones. The ground is everywhere well covered with grass and always kept closely cut.

The trees and shrubbery consist chiefly of oaks, maples, elms, poplars, sycamores and different varieties of arborvite. The number of graves is three thousand two hundred and ninety-four, which are classified as follows, viz:

The burials are made by States, so far as known. About four hundred of the interments were made originally here. The remains of the others were removed from the old cemetery at New Berne, Beaufort, N. C., Morehead, Kingston, Hatteras, Roanoke Island and many other places along the coast of North Carolina.

THE NEW BERNE WATER COMPANY.

John F. Zebley, President. H. B. Zebley, Treasurer.

The system consists of ten deep artesian wells connected with two first-class compound steam-pumps capable of pumping two million gallons of water per diem, with a boiler capacity of double the real requirements, and placed in an absolutely fireproof pump-house. These pumps are arranged to pump either directly into the standpipe or by a cat-off valve into pipe system alone. The standpipe is one hundred and twenty feet high. by

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The city has two volunteer steam fire companies a Silsby engine, and has a membership of thirty-three. The New Berne No. 1 was organized in 1865, uses a Button engine, and has a membership of thirty. In connection are two horse hose carriages, carrying a total of some 2,500 feet of hose. The officers of the derartment are:

CHIEF ENGINEER	E.	W.	Smallwood.
SECRETARY AND TREASURER.	W	. D.	Barrington.
FOREMAN ATLANTIC	_W	. D.	Barrington.
FOREMAN NEW BERNE		J.	W. Moore.

The general alarm system is used, and bell repeats taps as sent from box. There are ten alarm stations. This was the first fire department in the State to have trained horses and hanging harness, and it has been victorious in every fire tournament in which it took part.

NEW BERNE CITY DIRECTORY.

NEW BERNE'S RAILROAD LINES.

Though not claiming to be the great railroad centre of the South, the two lines running into New Berne afford most excellent and ample passenger and freight facilities. The Atlantic and North Carolina, running from Goldsboro to Morehead City, of which W. S. Chadwick is President, and S. L. Dill is Superintendent, has its main offices and company shops (and gets the bulk of its patronage) here. The management is conservative, and the increase in freights from the trucking and lumber interests has recently put the road in a better condition than ever before, the stock having more than doubled in market value, and the first dividend declared.

The completion in August of the Wilmington, New Berne and Norfolk road to this place, gives easy and quick transportation South via Wilmington, and North to the truck, fish and oysters of the Jacksonville and New River section, via New Berne and the Atlantic and North Carolina road. This road runs through the finest timber lands of the State, is under efficient management, and when completed to Norfolk will shorten the time from Wilmington to New York and Philadelphia some five or six hours. Its road-bed from New Berne to Wilmington is one of the best in the State. Their head office is in Wilmington, with H. A. Whiting General Superintendent, and J. W. Martenis, General Freight and Passenger Agent.

Both of these lines connect with steamers to Elizabeth City and Norfolk, and give through bills lading to Northern, Southern and European points.
